"HAVING FUN WHILE RAISING FUNDS"

Cincinnati Children's Heart Institute/Kindervelt
Neurodevelopmental and Educational Clinic

From the President

VOLUME 14 ● ISSUE 4
November 2015

The holiday season is rapidly approaching and soon we will be celebrating a wonderful time of thanksgiving with our families and friends. As dedicated Kindervelt volunteers, you have given generously to Cincinnati Children's and the Heart Institute Kindervelt Neurodevelopmental and Educational Clinic. They are extremely appreciative of the enormous contributions that Kindervelt has made and continues to make. At this time of great thanksgiving no gift is more valued than the gift of hope, as we continue in our efforts to help children!

Holidays mean excitement and there is a lot of it surrounding this year's 40th Anniversary Kindervelt Market Gala. Ree Pebler and her dedicated Market Steering Committee have been extremely busy with planning and working endless hours to make this evening spectacular. The first 'mini Market' was very successful with tons of Halloween and Fall merchandise sold. The Gala should be a wonderful evening, with sit down dinner, auctions, raffles, dancing and lots of fun to be had by all. I hope that you plan to join us for the Gala – get your reservations in soon!!

Thank you to all the members, friends and sponsors who are working at Market in any way. I would like to extend a huge thanks to Ree and the Steering Committee for all of their hard work. A big thanks to each and every member of Kindervelt for all that you do to raise funds for Cincinnati Children's. As we march into the Holiday Season, reach out and be grateful for each other. Kindervelt shines strongly – we truly are the place to be – continue to share our mission with others. The more we shine the more others will step forward. Remember the funds we raise impact the lives of children.

Enjoy your Thanksgiving with your family and friends.

From the Heart Institute.....

Elizabeth Sampson Seacrest Studios Performance Was My Victory Lap

Music has always been in my life, but it played a much bigger role before and after my heart transplant. After receiving a diagnosis of restrictive cardiomyopathy in 2010, I had to stop playing sports all together. At 17-years-old, this was a pretty big lifestyle change for me, and I needed an outlet. So I turned to music.

I began singing in show choirs, learned how to play guitar, started performing with a group of friends at local churches and county fairs, and even played the role of Maria in my high school's production of The Sound of Music. Then I went to Bowling Green State University and life got really busy. I was determined to live a fairly normal life, participating in campus activities, and enjoying the many opportunities to meet new friends at school, all while combating a slow fight with heart failure. There wasn't much time for music.

In December of last year we determined with guidance from my doctors in the cardiomyopathy program that it was time for me to list for a heart transplant. In just four months, I received the call that a heart was available. I rushed to Cincinnati Children's and hours later received the gift of a new heart and a new life.

After undergoing heart transplant surgery on April 13, 2013, I was anxious to sing and play again. Music had helped me through one of the biggest changes in my life before and I was grateful for the opportunity to play again. The music therapy program at Cincinnati Children's provided the outlet for me to do what I love and played a huge part in keeping my spirits up during my recovery. I remember the first time I sang after my transplant; it was a defining moment. My family and I knew I was well on my way to recovering and living a life that was even better than before. It was an emotional experience and one of my favorite memories from my time in the hospital. I spent all of the last spring and summer in the hospital recovering, and fighting some complications along the way. The months in the hospital were long and hard, but my amazing team of doctors and nurses, my family, and my friends kept me motivated and positive throughout the healing process. Amazingly, by the end of August I was doing much better and was able to leave Cincinnati Children's and return to BGSU by the first day of classes.

I am finally feeling better and the last few weeks have felt like a victory lap for me. I was asked to sing at the opening event for Seacrest Studios. During my recent stay at Cincinnati Children's, my music therapist Kathryn Yeager and station manager Zach Wells asked me to participate in a promotional video for the studio. After I sang for them, we joked about me singing for Ryan when he came. Never in my wildest dreams did I think it would become a reality! I was actually so excited that I had to push it to the back of my mind so that I could stay focused on school.

When the day arrived, I performed live on WKID33 in front of Ryan Seacrest, Jason Derulo, and Drew Lachey. It was such a thrill and I was honestly a little star struck when Ryan Seacrest greeted me with, "Hi Liz!"

The entire experience was pure fun for me, and I believe it or not, I wasn't that nervous to sing. I always joke that the Lord must have known what was coming in my life, and was gracious in not giving me many nerves. I chose to sing Timshel by Mumford & Sons because I love the message of the song and I thought it was fitting for the event. "You are not alone in this, as brothers we will stand and will hold your hand."

That is what I hope the patients will feel while watching or participating in WKID33. I hope that they will be reminded that they aren't alone in their journey, no matter how hard or long it might be.

Muff Brockman

Muff Brockman has been a member of Kindervelt #4 Kenwood/Indian Hill since 1997. At the time, she was looking for an organization with which she could get involved. After talking about Kindervelt with her close knit group of neighbors, she decided that this was what she was looking for. Having three children, Muff loved the idea of being a part of an organization that gave to such a wonderful, research driven institution such as Cincinnati Children's. She was also drawn to the fact that with Kindervelt, you could be as involved as you wanted to be. Raising three daughters while working, it was nice to be able to be more involved some years, and a little less others. She also believed that Kindervelt is such a great organization because it really epitomizes what volunteering should be: having fun, giving back to the community, and working together with other individuals with a common goal to achieve something wonderful. For Muff, it has been a true joy over the years to see how far Kindervelt has come, and just how successful our local groups have been in raising funds for Cincinnati Children's.

In her 19 years with Kindervelt, Muff has held various positions in her group. She was the Projects Chair for several years, and most recently was President of KV #4 for two years. In addition to this, she has chaired a variety of group projects such as their annual Holiday Luminary Sale. Muff was co-President of KV #4 with one of her daughters, which was a very rewarding experience.

When asked, Muff's favorite thing about being a member of Kindervelt is knowing that the time she dedicates to fundraising for Kindervelt is going to make a difference in a child and their family's lives. This is something she is very proud to be a part of.

Because she was raising three girls during her Kindervelt years, they have grown up helping with all sorts of events from baking for bake sales to passing out flyers. All three girls have also become a part of Kindervelt. Her two oldest daughters, Abbey and Courtney are members of Kindervelt #4, while her youngest Hannah was instrumental in starting the Indian Hill high school group. Hannah is now at college, but plans to join when she graduates.

Muff grew up in Cincinnati. She is has been married to Tom Brockman for 32 years (on November 5). They are avid Cincinnati Bengals fans, and have been season ticket holders for 35 years. Going to the Bengal's games with her family is something she looks forward to every fall. She also loves to travel. With Hannah off to college, she and her husband will have much more time to travel. Muff also loves to keep active. She enjoys trying new fitness classes such as Zumba and spinning at Power Ryde. And of course, having three daughters, she loves to shop!

When asked to share some advice about Kindervelt, Muff replied with, "Hold a position! Holding a position within the group not only gives you more appreciation for those who have held the position before you, and for those who will after you; but it also makes you become that much more invested in the organization and it's success. The great thing about Kindervelt is you can be as involved as your life allows so when you have the time I definitely suggest holding a position!"

Thank you Muff for being such an integral part of Kindervelt #4. We appreciate your dedication and commitment.

HITS THE RAILS SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 2015

For the past 17 years, literally thousands of families have enjoyed the tradition of rolling in the holidays on board the Kindervelt North Pole Express.

For one day only, on the Saturday before Thanksgiving, November 21, Wyoming's Kindervelt Group #8 will again host this fun event, with the vintage train departing from the Lebanon Mason and Monroe Station in historic Lebanon.

Included in the festivities are cookies, cocoa or coffee, costumed characters, narration of the book, The Polar Express (copies available for sale), Christmas carols enthusiastically led by elves, a personal visit with Santa and much more. Photo opportunities abound, and your children will be providing you with plenty of smiles. And pajamas are welcome on all rides!

The train has seven departure times, from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., with each ride lasting 45 minutes. Tickets are $18.00 per person. Group tickets must be ordered together. Order forms may be ordered through the hotline at (513) 588-0074, or downloaded from www.kindervelt.org after OCTOBER 1, at which time ticket sales begin.

As in the past, all proceeds go towards Cincinnati Children's Hospital Medical Center, specifically the Heart Institute/Kindervelt Neurodevelopmental and Educational Clinic.

Don't miss out on all the fun!
